

FOCUS

Focus, is the expression of the often observed solitary life that the Great Blue Heron practices. Throughout history the herons have endeared their characteristics to man's cultures around the planet.

For me, Focus represents a duality in separating from others to set your own course and the perfection of an active patience. This opens the door to reflect on nature as it relates to a quality of life that many of our ancestors understood and we are in jeopardy of losing.

This small casting is based on the larger sculpture Confluence of Blue, which consists of 6 herons and was created as the featured artist for the 2014 Waterfowl Festival in Easton, Maryland.
